

ABSTRACT

An optocoupler drive circuit for the high side of a totem pole power transistor pair in a bridge circuit for commutating a motor includes an optocoupler output device being directly connected to the upper power transistor in the totem pole, and series resistor of selected value for controlling the drive current to said upper power transistor to reduce its speed of turn on.